

CRACK CAPITALISM

Directed by Eric Alexander-Hughes

Synopsis:

Using money from cocaine sales out of Nicaragua, the C.I.A. covertly funded military operations in Nicaragua during the 1980's. These covert government activities substantially contributed to the 'crack cocaine epidemic' in urban America. The subsequent effect was that black incarceration was systematized and monetized.

Cast and Crew:

Director: Eric Alexander-Hughes
Producers: Amanda Morton and Jason Barth
Editor: Eric Alexander-Hughes
Composer: Quinn Gibson

Executive Producers:
Aida Hughes, Nelson George, Michael Ostin, Brett Rattner and Andrew Dilts

This documentary features interviews with:

1. Michael Dukakis, 1988 Democratic Nominee for President/former Governor of Massachusetts
2. Legendary L.A. drug trafficker of the early 80's "Freeway" Rick Ross
3. Author, filmmaker, producer, and culture critic Nelson George
4. Dr. Michael Genovese from Loyola Marymount's Institute of Leadership Studies

Tag line:

"To "get real" is to confront a state-of-nature where dog eats dog, where you're either a winner or a loser- and most will be losers."

Links:

The full film:
<https://vimeo.com/ericalexanderhughes/crackcapitalism>

The Teaser Trailer:
<https://vimeo.com/69423370>

Los Angeles Reel Film Festival Winners' Page:
http://lareelfilmfest.com/2015_Winners.html

CRACK CAPITALISM

Follow the money...

Prepare to be ensnared while watching this shocking documentary about the C.I.A.'s covert war against communism in Nicaragua during the 1980's. Explore the more insidious aspects of the C.I.A.'s covert war, and the steady pipeline of drugs which funded the South America coup and ignited America's infamous 'Crack cocaine epidemic'.

TO GET YOUR COPY CONTACT ERIC ALEXANDER-HUGHES
EricAlexanderHughes@Gmail.com