LOGLINE

An endearing book lover becomes convinced her soulmate is a fellow member of her local library and is determined to track him down — whether the librarian likes it or not!

SYNOPSIS

When an endearing book lover discovers a library receipt containing some of her most beloved books, she's convinced the owner must be her soulmate. Determined to track him down (whether the librarian likes it or not), she decides to hide clues in her favorite books. Surely her soulmate will find them?

DIRECTOR STATEMENT

Positivity is magnetic — it can uplift others and create a powerful ripple effect. I wanted to make a feel-good film that conveyed such optimism and connection. As a first-time filmmaker, I relied extensively on the expertise of everyone on this project and I was so thankful for their skills, support, and energy every day.

As a military veteran, I know what it's like to put my creative career on hold to serve my country. What I hadn't counted on was the community of vets within the entertainment industry who would bring professionalism, camaraderie, and a little bit of hoo-rah to filmmaking. I'm proud to say that my cast consisted entirely of military veterans, as did half of my crew!

SHANNON CORBEIL

DIRECTOR | WRITER | ACTOR

Shannon is an actor, writer, and director most recently seen on SEAL Team and The Rookie.

A Southern California native, she received her undergraduate degree from Loyola Marymount University Los Angeles before commissioning into the United States Air Force, serving as an Intelligence Officer in Texas, Maryland, and the Republic of Korea.

Playful and adventurous, Shannon has a penchant for stories about heroism, good triumphing over evil, and probably magic.

Library Soulmate is Shannon's directorial debut.

JENNIFER BROFER

PRODUCER

Jennifer Brofer is a producer and actor who served as a Marine Corps broadcast journalist. Growing up, she always had a love for theater and film, but she put her dreams on hold in order to answer the call to military service.

In 2010, she deployed for a year to Afghanistan's Helmand Province as the 1st MLG (Forward) Public Affairs Chief, coordinating news coverage of the unit's forward deployed Marines and sailors.

In January 2012, Brofer was honorably discharged from the Marine Corps and went on to attend film school at The University of Texas at Austin, graduating with a Bachelor of Science in Radio-Television-Film. She is now the CEO of Right Face Productions.

She is a graduate of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts and a member of The American Legion Post 43.

LISA COSTANZA

ACTRESS

Lisa was born in Louisiana but grew up in Southern California. She attended California State University Long Beach where she received her BA and MA in theater.

Lisa is a retired Army Colonel, with 28 total years of service. She completed her military career serving as a Logistics Brigade Commander in Iraq and retired as a Division Chief of Staff. During her military service she found a way of blending her artistic side with the military, directing two live musical extravaganzas featuring soldiers and civilians. Now retired, she is truly living her lifelong dream of being an actress. Lisa is the youngest of five children.

Lisa's recent credits include her roles in Shameless, The Guest Book, and Doubt.

JACK MURILLO

ACTOR

Jack Murillo was born in San Diego and learned to play the piano and sing at a very young age. His love for music developed into an interest in competitive Show Choir and Mixed-Martial Arts, specializing in Jiu-Jitsu and Muay Thai.

After high school, Jack enlisted in the Marine Corps as an Infantry Rifleman, Machine Gunner, and Scout/Sniper Platoon Marine, serving on two deployments with Marine Expeditionary Units.

During his service, he launched the high successful personal/comedy skit series The Buffalo Hunter, where he discovered his love for acting. A student of The Lee Strasberg Theatre & Film Institute's Method Acting Conservatory, Jack's recent credits include SEAL Team and Call of Duty: Modern Warfare.

DEVIN SCHIRO

DIRECTOR OF PHOTOGRAPHY

Devin Schiro is a rising cinematographer and Los Angeles native. After relocating to Bakersfield, CA in his teens, he discovered filmmaking as a creative outlet in an otherwise agriculture community, prompting him to move back to LA in 2006 to pursue a degree in film and multimedia.

Devin went on to work as the media director for Working Wildlife, one of the film and television industry's leading wild animal companies. It was there that Devin was asked to start filming animals on movie sets, leading him to discover cinematography and become entranced by the medium.

In the years since, Devin's videos have collectively amassed millions of views between a number of jobs working with major brands, record labels, and household names.

RYAN RICKS

COMPOSER

Ryan Ricks is an American re-recording mixer and composer based in Los Angeles. He has written original soundtracks for films, video games, and television series, most recently HeR Interactive's newest Nancy Drew video game - Nancy Drew: Midnight In Salem.

“I loved working on this film. The first time I saw it, I fell in love with how quirky and charming the story and characters are. I wanted the music to reflect that.”

A woman with curly hair, wearing a light blue denim jacket, is looking over her shoulder towards the camera. She is in a library or bookstore, with bookshelves filled with books in the background. The lighting is warm and slightly dim.
