SYNOPSIS:

A Filipino-American woman grapples with going behind her strict Catholic sister's back to buy condoms for her 14-year-old niece.

DIRECTOR BIOGRAPHY:

Yasmine Gomez is a Filipino American writer and director of multiple award-winning short films, including TERRA COTTA, ASIAN AMERICAN JESUS, CONSUMED, and LEA SALONGA: WHO I AM INSIDE. In feature films, she helped produce SPLIT AT THE ROOT, A PICTURE OF YOU, and ADVANTAGEOUS. Recently, she produced for Vox, THE ELLEN SHOW, and Beyonce's BLACK IS KING. Yasmine recently debuted her latest play FIRST FILIPINO for Bindlestiff Studio's Stories High.

DIRECTOR STATEMENT:

I wanted to make a comedic drama exploring the taboos of sex and Catholicism, and the difficult choices women make to support each other under oppressive circumstances. I also wanted to look at the black sheep in Filipino familial relationships and the secrets that bubble underneath the surface.
